Dr. Melanie Iverson

Melanie grew up in Hudson, Wisconsin a small town located in western Wisconsin on the St. Croix River. She received her Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and stuck around for another four years to obtain her Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree in 2018. She then ventured to Guelph, Ontario where she spent three years as an anatomic pathology resident at Ontario Veterinary College. Upon completing the program and receiving her Doctor of Veterinary Science degree in October 2021 she moved to Anchorage, Alaska with her partner. During veterinary school Melanie had spent several summers in Alaska working with the Alaska Department of Fish and Game and could not think of a better place to live! In her free time, Melanie enjoys backcountry camping, canoe tripping, winter fat biking, and spending time with her family and French Brittanys, Luken and Timber.

Dr. Steven Mills

Dr. Mills grew up in Calgary and completed his veterinary degree and pathology training at the University of Saskatchewan. He subsequently entered private practice, gaining first hand experience as a small animal clinician and clinic owner. During this time, he successfully completed his ACVP board certification (2016). For the last four years he has focused exclusively on diagnostic pathology, specializing in small animal surgical pathology and cytology. Dr. Mills recently became an 'Islander' and is making new tracks in Victoria with his wife and three kids.
